JACK TIGHE

GOT THE DECISION

Defeated Stanton Abbott at Laurel Hill Park Last Night.

ROUNDS WERE TAME

Tighe Was in the Pink of Condition and Abbott Was Not, but the Scrantonian Was the Victim of Over-Caution and the Victory Contained but Little Honor -- At No Time Was There Prospect of a Quick Finish.

The 15-round glove contest between Stanton Abbott, of England, and John Tighe, of this city, was decided in favor of the latter at Laurel Hill park last night. The event took place in the dancing pavilion and was witnessed by about 250 spectators.

In more than one respect the bout was disappointing. At no time was there any severe fighting or any prospect of the affair being decided in less than the fixed number of rounds and neither boxer did the best work of which he was capable. Abbott was hog fat and in no condition to work for even eight rounds, and Tighe, though in the very pink of condition, was plainly a victim of over-caution and fear of the ring knowledge, boxing ability and vicious hitting power of the Britisher.

Eddle Coleman was agreed upon for referee after a great deal of trouble and delay, which postponed the beginning of the contest until 10.17 o'clock. The timekeepers were William Raeder and Al Rose, the Lackswanna avenue hatter. In Tighe's corner were Dick Eavers, Pat Murphy and Paddy Hopkins, the two former comprising the backbone of the National Sporting club, under whose auspices the affair was given. Abbott was handled by Toby Gardner, John Kelly and Tony Gordon.

The men were to have weighed in at 138 pounds. Tighe was not over that weight and was in as good trim as a fighter could be. Abbott was at least five pounds more in weight than the Scrantonian, but this was a decided handicap and not an advantage, as the extra weight was unmistakable fat, which was in evidence on all parts of his body. He was content to give a wonderfully clever exhibition of de-fensive tactics, allowing Tighe to jab away at him from the first clang of the gong until the finish. Rarely did the ex-champion of England assume the man there was a menace and experience in his style which kept Tighe busy with his feet.

After fourteen rounds of tag and few clinches the men came together for the windup. Tighe had gained courage and went at his man in a more determined fashion and which might have been more effective if he began early in the bout, but his prancing had tired him and his forced energy was not productive of any result. The only marks on either man was a slight abrasion of the skin on Tighe's for head and a cut over Abbott's left eye, received in the fifteenth Tighe's jabbing leads had carned man and nobody was sorry when the bout ended at 11.10 o'clock.

The first preliminary was one of four rounds at 130 pounds between Mike Connors, of Peckville, and James Jackson, of Old Forge. What Jackson lacked in science he possessed in stiff punching ability but the latter did not offset the superior eleverness of the Peckville boxer who did most of the fighting and was justly given the de-

New York, Sept. 22.-The boxing bouts scheduled to take place tonight at the arena of the Eastern Athletic club in Williamsburg, were declared off, owing to the club's not having a proper license to allow boxing contests. The chief attrac-tion scheduled was a ten-round go between Jack McAuliffe and Jack Downey and it was announced that this was set over until October 1, but in all probability this means an indefinite postponement.
